Frowning on the criticism that rote-learning process could creep into the CBSE system, Arti Chopra, Principal, Amity International School, Gurugram, said, "I disagree. There is no scope for such a development as under the new rules, schools have been instructed to continue to impart education through activity and project-based initiatives. Further, with the removal of the CCE the teachers would be less stressed while preparing the students to face the two term examination pattern. Students can now have a smooth transition from the lower classes to classes 11 and 12."
