The journey of life is meant to be savoured. Stepping out of your comfort zone, doesn't imply one has to excel in that field. Experiments are a part of this adventurous voyage.

We have a choice to walk the untrodden path. Something unexpected is waiting for all of us if we are willing to expand our horizons.

AN AISMV INITIATIVE

AIS,MV celebrates "Amitvapravah"

Ms. Archana Upadhyay (Faculty)

Amity International School Mayur Vihar organized Annual Day for classes I to V on February 28, 2018 titled Amitva Pravah, the eternal flow of values. It aimed to portray how our rivers have been cradles of civilizations and benefactors of all creatures.

The event commenced with the auspicious lighting of the lamp amidst the chanting of the soul soothing shlokas followed by an amazing fusion of music, the bhaav raag and taal.

The Principal, Dr Priyanka Mehta formally welcomed the honourable Chairperson of Amity Schools Dr Mrs Amita Chauhan and distinguished luminaries from diverse fields.

The Guest of Honour was Deputy Director Education zone 2 east, Mr Sanjay Chaturvedi.

Presenting the school annual report, the principal highlighted the glorious achievements of the school at national and international forums and enumerated the philosophy of school.

The main presentation depicted that rivers are our lifelines hence there is urgent need to save them from pollution. The event highlighted values and sense of responsibility through a glittering harmony of dance and drama. The immensely talented young participants left the audience spell bound by their scintillating performance. The Chairperson Of Amity Schools, Dr Mrs Amita Chauhan applauded the students for their brilliant performance and urged them to uphold the values and traditions of their school. The programme concluded with the school song and the national anthem.

Amity Mayur Vihar - A Home away from Home

Amity International School
Is like home and pretty cool.
All my beloved teachers are the most affectionate creatures.
And Oh! Dear classmates
how do I describe you
I cannot imagine a day without you.
We are blessed to have such Dads and Moms always concerned about the little Tinkies and Toms.

In class seven
we were on top of the Heaven.
We promise in class eight
Life would be surely great.
Amity is activities galore
So much fun and excitement you never get bored.

Investiture

Amity International School Mayur Vihar held the Investiture Ceremony for the new Students' Council 2018. It was a solemn occasion where the young students, guided by the inspiring vision of the Chairperson of Amity schools, Dr Mrs Amita Chauhan, were all prepared to don the mantle of leadership and discharge the responsibilities entrusted upon them. The event was presided over by Col. Ahluwalia, (ret'd) Senior Consultant Sports and B N Bajpayi, Advisor R& D. The programme commenced with the auspicious lighting of the lamp amidst the chanting of the soul soothing shlokas. This was followed by a motivational song by the school choir.

The Principal Dr Priyanka Mehta formally welcomed the august gathering and congratulated the members of the new council and the proud parents. She urged the students to place duty before self and accomplish the responsibilities with commitment.

The immaculately dressed members of the new students' council proudly marched before an impressive gathering. The head boy and the head girl of the previous student council shared their memorable moments. And the newly elected members received badges and the sashes from the esteemed guests. Taking oath, the members promised to discharge their duties honestly and to the best of their abilities. The new Head boy Aryaman Singh and the Head Girl Sarah Susan Varkey expressed deep gratitude to the Chairperson and the esteemed institution for nurturing them with values and ensuring all round development of the students. They also vowed to contribute for the school's development as per their best of abilities.

After the vote of thanks delivered by the new head boy and the head girl, the newly appointed council members marched proudly and the programme concluded with the school song and the national anthem.

Roller Skating

Directed: Kenneth Branagh.

Written by: Michael Green

Cast: Kenneth Branagh, Penélope Cruz, Willem Dafoe, Judi Dench, Josh Gad, Derek Jacobi, Leslie Odom Jr, Michelle Pfeiffer.

Based upon a novel by Agatha Christie

Duration: 1h 54m

Rating: 4/5

What starts out as a lavish train ride through Europe quickly unfolds into one of the most stylish, suspenseful and thrilling mysteries ever told. The movie tells the tale of thirteen strangers stranded on a train, where everyone's a suspect. One man must race against time to solve the puzzle before the murderer strikes again.

Murder mysteries are funny things. They have to be gripping enough to get you invested in the crime and the outcome of the case while telling a logical and perhaps emotional story.

As Detective Hercule Poirot attempts to go on a long overdue vacation, he is pulled into a mysterious murder committed aboard the train he's riding on with a dozen other passengers. The story is a true 'who did it?', with each passenger a potential murderer and the truth getting more complex the closer Poirot gets to the murderer.

However, the film gets a bit repetitious as it goes on. Each interview with the train's passengers plays very similar to the last. Murder on the Orient Express looks gorgeous too. Branagh's eye for direction shows off in the film with some stunning visuals and cinematography.

Overall, Murder on the Orient Express is a fine film. The cast helps elevate it and the mystery is engrossing, though the repetitious nature of some of the scenes hinder the film's momentum without adding any more substance to it. Branagh's acting and direction are the highlight of the film and the film has some great visuals. The film's positive elements aren't quite enough to outweigh the negatives, but despite those few flaws, audiences will probably enjoy this interpretation of Christie's classic mystery.

"Lie back and think, use the little grey cells of the mind, and you will know!"

Book review: From the eyes of a book lover

Anandi Sen, 11 G

The Palace of Illusions

Ratings: 4/5

Genre: Fiction, Speculative fiction, Historical Fiction, Fantasy Fiction

Author: Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni

An enriching tale by Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, 'The Palace Of Illusions' narrates the tale of Mahabharata from a different perspective. Draupadi or Paanchali, is the protagonist who narrates her tale in this historical fiction. Suppressed by the patriarchal world, she is barred from questioning the societal norms and enforced to obediently follow the obligations. A heavy dose of feminism and questioning the standards of beauty, she emerges like a warrior destined to change the course of history. A princess succumbed to marrying five men, the society's binding on sexuality, her fascination towards her transgender sister. Having her home, freedom and honour gambled away, the grim justice of war and a distressed tale of personal loss, she stands strong and challenges the civilization and its fallacious perception of the so called fairer sex. The book is an eye opener, which would leave you questioning the principles imposed by the people for the people. It also deals with the tale of unrequited and eternal love and the admiration and lust for a man who was her husband's biggest enemy. Full of imagery and metaphor, Divakaruni manages to bring about a radical mental change and of thought process towards the shackles binding the free will and liberty of women. She exposes the false utopian image of princesses.

The book might not sound too appealing to you if feminist writings, mythology and social issues aren't your genre. Other than being mesmerized by the regality and opulence, you are bound to give a long thought towards the patriarchy plaguing the society and question your own moral ethics.

UNDERSTANDING PEER PRESSURE

-Kanika Jain, 9 B

Roller Skating

We humans as social animals, often get influenced by people in our vicinity like classmates, friends etc. True, friends add shine and joy to our life, but if the correct pals are not chosen, the impacts can be catastrophic. Peer pressure is of those deadly problems, prevalent among children, especially teenagers.

Roller Skating

Peer pressure, in very simple words, is social influence of one's peer group on an individual, which often pressurizes him/her to perform tasks that occasionally may be against his/her wishes in order to earn respect and fame amongst them. The feeling of 'What would they say if I do this'; 'would they like this'; 'would they mock me if I try that' are the ones which compel us to change our decisions into ones we don't agree with. This all happens when we neglect our feelings, and give precedence to other's feelings rather than oneself, which leaves people distressed and anxious all the time.

Roller Skating

Peer pressure can have many detrimental impacts. Since it may propel us to do things against our capabilities and wishes, we might end up losing our genuine talent as our body's energy is used up in activities the peer group want. We might end up losing our confidence, as chances of failure and discontent escalate when do things against our inner voice, eventually leaving us desolated and dispirited throughout our life. Thus, combatting this, that too at the right stage becomes a necessity.

Annual Day

Please remember, you create your future by your thoughts and actions. You are your own leader. You know yourself the best. The choices you take, first and foremost affect you than anybody else in this whole wide world. So, you need take a stand, and take your own decisions, and be comfortable with them. You need to trust your instincts, which shouldn't be influenced by their majority's decisions. Do what you feel you is right. Life is not a bed of roses, so you need to be courageous and bold. If you feel something is erroneous, you have every right to disagree with it, so express your disapproval. Learn to say 'NO' and you will gradually notice a change in yourself.

Annual Day
Art-Department

Also chose the right circle of friends surrounding you. Your friend should be diligent, warm - hearted and caring, someone who treasures your sentiments, understands you to the fullest and is receptive to your thoughts and ideas, at that very moment subtly helping you to recognize your mistakes and correct them. If you become one such ideal companion, believe me you both [you and your friend] will gradually conquer the heights of success. Consulting and regular counselling from well-wishers like teachers and parents is also a great move.

In a nutshell, free yourself from the clutches of peer pressure to live a blissful healthy long life.

The Lens to My World

ERASER

Bhagirathi-Ganga
Dance

The world is like the inside of a kaleidoscope,
As my lens to the world shows me.
It is an explosion of colours and emotions and hopes,
and yet shrouded in mystery.
My faithful lens captures moments of love,
loyalty, sacrifice and bravery.
It has seen nations rise and soar like the flight of a dove, and witnessed hearts break and oh, so much more but still there is more to see.

Bhagirathi-Ganga
Dance

Yet my faithful lens is now battered and worn, sometimes it makes me wish..
what if I could tear this down,
and somehow, start afresh?
No wars, no deaths,
no hunger, no doubt.

Bhagirathi-Ganga
Dance

I could paint a beautiful vista worthy of being bestowed a wreath, the world could be a paradise where I could roam about.
But, just out of curiosity, I decide to take off my lens,
and try to make memories of my own,
only to find joy and love in abundance,
and that was when I learnt an important lesson...

Brahamputra Dance

I'm not a critic for this world to complain and wail in misery,
But simply a soft note in this beautiful, melodious symphony!

Brahamputra Dance

She is my Inspiration,
My desire, My pride,
After which whole world derives,
I meet her only for half of day
we both just know each other like mother and kid,
I love her like my mother,
I want her as my mother,
She is my God,
He every scolding make me a better person,
Her encouragement is great,
Her motivation is not fade,
Her hug is not less,
Her smile is best,
Her words make me best,
Guess who is she,
Yes she is my motherly teacher.

Brahamputra Dance

I wish I had an eraser
for all the times I was consumed with guilt,
Like when I was told I was wrong because
I hadn't done things how they were supposed to be done.
I wish I had an eraser
for all the times I was made fun of and ridiculed, Like when I, for once, decided to do things my own way.
I wish I had an eraser
for all the regret I wanted to fade,
Like when I kept wondering 'what if' when
I was stopped from doing something I wanted to do.
I wish I had an eraser
for all the fear I wanted to end,
Like when I shied away from an opportunity only because
I was afraid people wouldn't like me.
I wish I had an eraser
for all the times I made a mistake.
When I didn't do things the way they were supposed to be done,
When I, for once, decided to do things my own way,
When I kept wondering 'what if' when I was stopped
from doing something I wanted to do,
When I shied away from an opportunity only because I was afraid people wouldn't like me.
When I refused to stand up for myself.
When I didn't believe that being who you are is far better than being someone else.
When I didn't realize earlier that the best thing I could have done, and should have done, was just be Me.

SUMMER CRAVINGS

—Diya Maria George, 8B

Oh the summer mornings,
The waking up to the birds calling,
And the early newspaper reading,
Are some of my summer cravings!
The melting of my cold ice creams,
The ringing of old cycle bells,
The giggling of little children around me,
Are some of my summer cravings!
The warm old nostalgic feelings,
The sweaty forehead and cold water bathing,
The happiness of my plants while I water them,
Are some of my summer cravings!
The swimming in cold seas,
The failed attempts to catch dragonflies,
The buzzing of crickets around my green grass,
Are some of my summer cravings!
And, thank God for making a lovely season like this,
Without which my life would be left spice less,
Oh, dear king of all seasons,
Thank You for giving me all of these summer cravings!

Bitcoin (Cryptocurrency)

- Venkash Kumar, 8B

Is this a normal a coin? Is it available in market? Is it released by Government? Can I go in market to buy goods? May be 2-3 cheap goods, in any case it is a coin! One Coin in India currently sells around Rupees 7 Lakhs only? What one Coin 7 Lakhs, yes, you heard it correctly, till last year one coin costed Rupees 15 Lakhs as well. What is this coin? What are we talking about? How do you get it? Good, you look curious so you read down here to get more into it?

What is Bitcoin?

It is also called Internet of Money (IoM) or cryptocurrency (cryptos = secret) or Bitcoin, designed to change the way of transactions, the way we trade. Bitcoin – is made up of 'bit' + 'coin' that literally stands for digital/virtual currency. the Bitcoin technology is the world's first-ever completely decentralised digital payment system. This digital money operate on Internet & use Cryptography.

Citation

Who invented it?

Satoshi Nakamoto, a secretive internet user, invented bitcoin in 2008 before it went online in 2009.

Now What is this Cryptography?

Cryptography is associated with the process of converting ordinary plain text into unintelligible text and vice-versa. It is a method of storing and transmitting data in a particular form so that only those for whom it is intended can read and process it. Cryptography not only protects data from theft or alteration, but can also be used for user authentication.

How do cryptocurrencies work?

Cryptocurrencies use decentralised technology to let users make secure payments and store money without the need to use their name or go through a bank. They run on a distributed public ledger called block chain, which is a record of all transactions updated and held by currency holders. Units of cryptocurrency are created through a process called mining, which involves using computer power to solve complicated maths problems that generate coins. Users can also buy the currencies from brokers, then store and spend them using cryptographic wallets.

What are the most common cryptocurrencies?

Bitcoin: Bitcoin was the first and is the most commonly traded cryptocurrency to date. The currency was developed by Satoshi Nakamoto in 2009, a mysterious figure who developed its blockchain. Ethereum: Developed in 2015, ether is the currency token used in the ethereum blockchain, the second most popular and valuable cryptocurrency.

Ripple: Ripple is another distributed ledger system that was founded in 2012.

Litecoin: This currency is most similar in form to bitcoin, but has moved more quickly to develop new innovations, including faster payments and processes to allow many more transactions.

Why would you use a cryptocurrency?

Cryptocurrencies are known for being secure and providing a level of anonymity but People look to invest in cryptocurrencies should be aware of the volatility of the market and the risks they take when buying. Because of the level of anonymity, they offer, cryptocurrencies are often associated with illegal activity, particularly on the dark web.

What is India's Stand?

As of today, virtual currencies like bitcoin were not considered lawful or legal tender in India & Reserve Bank of India has issued advisory to Citizens, not to invest in these currencies where in Countries like Japan, Europe it is permitted.

Litecoin: This currency is most similar in form to bitcoin, but has moved more quickly to develop new innovations, including faster payments and processes to allow many more transactions.

Market Day

When I was in pre-school, I never knew there was a possibility of sweet treats to be made at home, until my mom started to make these really soft and delicious sponge cakes. She would improvise her recipes every time and it always tasted so good.

I developed an interest in baking when I was 12, I think, but at that time I would mostly just assist my sister in baking the boxed cake mixes (because we didn't want to risk cakes to taste bad). One day, when I was at school and the winter break was about to begin, me and my friends decided to come over to my place to bake, it was a definite disaster, what should have been a red velvet cake was now a sour and stiff piece of flour mix. I learned not to use salt based food colouring.

My first individual bake would be on the New Year's Eve of 2015. I was so excited to begin the baking and take credits for how good it'd taste.

It took me quite a while but I could manage to present the cake to the others before midnight. It was a basic chocolate sponge cake in a heart shape. Everyone seemed to like it (or maybe they didn't want to make me feel bad). After a few bakes with my sister, I got the hang of it. Ever since, I have baked lots of times, for birthdays or anniversaries or maybe for nothing. Once, I had been successful at the cakes, I wanted to try baking cookies. The first batch was bit shapeless but they tasted fine. The second time I baked them, they came out perfect. So, on Christmas Eve this past year, my sister was home and we decided to make it a bit special, we spent 10 hours baking different types of cookies, muffins, and a cake. When we were planning for it, we got a bit too excited and planned a bit too much, we started out great then after a while we lost the spirit and slowed down until the perfect blue snowflake cookies came out. We closed up around 11 in the night and the next day was quite the celebration.

There have been lots of mug cakes, muffins, fudge cakes, crumble cakes, marble cakes, cheese cakes and cookies. We also baked pancakes on New Year's Eve, a sweet ending to a sweet year.

I basically do it to zone out of my usual routine. I mean, who doesn't have a sweet tooth?

Importance of Open Spaces and Green Belt Areas in Cities

Anchita Jain, VII C

It is a matter of great concern that due to over-population and over construction of residential areas shopping malls and complexes, the open spaces and green belt areas in our cities are reducing day by day. The basic needs and facilities of people are increasing day by day. The buildings and complexes are built without proper water flowing and sewage systems. The open areas were a recreational place for children and old people. The belt of trees provided fresh air and reduced air pollution.

As a result, no green belt areas are left in the cities and the green areas from the Earth's surface are reducing. Also recreational areas like parks are decreasing from cities and neighborhood are decreasing rapidly. Also live spans of people are decreasing in cities. Suffocation and Traffic problems are increasing these days.

To make Earth beautiful and green and once more, one should stop cutting trees. Instead plant more trees and gift saplings and eco-friendly things instead of giving fancy items or materials on occasions. Also, one should spread awareness about advantages of planting trees. Schools and Colleges should organize workshops for the students about the importance of the plants and open and green areas. Growing trees will save the near future of the coming generations otherwise in coming years; one has to buy the basic life support that is Oxygen from Oxygen Stores. Just think once about it once!

"Nokia! Nokia! Are you coming or not?"cried Miranda from her room. "Come on! Time's ticking. Got to go!". "Coming" replied Nokia, Racing down the stairs. Nokia and Miranda were best friends. Nokia had come to Miranda's for a sleepover. They were to go to the library every weekend. "Have you taken your book? Asked Miranda. "I have. Have you?"

"Oh,Miranda, after issuing new books from the library, you know where to go,right?"asked her worried mom. Miranda nodded. "Wow! Look at that new shelf of books!"exclaimed Nokia. "Oh those! Those are new books I just brought. Those are all kids moral stories in that corner"Mrs. Spring, the librarian, said. "Oh well,anyway, you better check that corner. Those stories are for kids your age. Adventure over there! A few are detective series.". "Thanks Mrs. Spring. But where are the fairy tales? I wanted stories unread by me..."groaned Miranda. But no sooner she said it, she spotted fairy tale corner. ".Comedy in jokes. The perfect definition of a joke. Make people laugh." Nokia picked up the book of her choice and read the description aloud. "Wow, that does sound good" Miranda turned around to see the joke book. "Princess Shendaina. The sparkling twinkling princess." Miranda found her kind of book from the pile.

"Well, you as my special guests can stay over there in the reading corner. You know,the place where you can read your book with peace." Offered Mrs. Spring. "Oh we can? Thank you Mrs. Spring!" Nokia and Miranda exchanged looks. What a pretty place! The reading corner was filled with small bookshelves, had a soft mattress lieddown and cushioning against the walls. Teddy bears were near the shelves and pictures of famous book characters around. There was music all around...

Nokia and Miranda were impressed they thanked Mrs. Spring a billion times. They were all cosily sitting, hearing the soft music around. "To make a joke funny, we should say it with a smiling face. Suitable gestures will help make the jokes funnier. Laughing yourself will....."

Read Nokia from her joke book. Meanwhile.... "Shendaina held her hands tighter than Before. "Are you sure you could pull me up the mountain..." Miranda closed her princess book with a slam. Suddenly, the beautiful,soft music turned sharp.

Grandma's House

-Kashvi Singh Das VII - C

"I'll miss you guys," Christina said as she hugged her mother. "We'll miss you too honey. Now remember, Ginger eats cat food in the morning and milk with fish at night," her father said. "And give her some milk in the afternoon as well," her mother said. Christina nodded as she took her cat in a blue basket in one hand, her bag on her shoulder and her cats supplies in her other hand and said good bye and left for her grandmother's house. After the five hour flight, she finally reached Toronto, Canada where her grandma's house was. Grandma. If she was being honest to herself, she was a little creeped out by her. And living alone with her, my, was Christina terrified. "Well, I guess we should get going then, Ginger," she said to her orange cat. She walked down to her Grandma's neighborhood. It was weird really. It had been almost six years since she last came here, still nothing had changed, the same old trees, the same old bricked houses, same old narrow roads and the same old scary feel to it. She took a deep breath and walked down to the house. The door was open, so she walked in. "Grandma! I'm home!" she said. No reply. She heard coughing in the family room. "Grandma?" she said as she opened the door. Someone was on the rocking chair. "Christie?" her grandma said. "Yes, Grandma?" she said. "I'm going to die soon. I just wanted to spend time with you before I leave. But you can go if you want to." Her grandma said. Christina ran and sat on the floor and kept her head on her grandma's lap. "Grandma, I'm sorry. All these years, you've been trying to connect with me, but I was too stupid and took it for granted." Her Grandma nodded."Ginger? Ginger, where are you? It's time to eat!" Christina shouted. She suddenly saw her parents, with Ginger in their hands and the police searching the place. "Mom, daddy what's going on?" she asked them. "Your grandma's body was just found in the ally three days ago." Her dad said.

WASTERROOTS is a social enterprise which offers Gardening services for potted plants at reasonable rates. It accepts old papers /newspapers and exchange plants and pots of equivalent value. Thinking Green, Thinking Social therefore ensuring paper waste goes to registered recycler, not landfill.

This year youth power team which is promoting torganic lifestyle through their project “Jio jaivik” ,interacts with Ms. Sudha Singh, a team member of Wasteroots.

Online gardener

Everyone likes having plants in their homes, it has a spiritual value, but in today’s world where people are too busy to look after themselves, they obviously don’t have enough time to look after their plants.

For people to get attracted to the idea of segregating their waste, it was necessary to reinforce them and give them a boost, and what is better than giving away plants in exchange of their paper waste? It solves both the issues .

On collecting paper waste

Its only paper waste but I intend to collect plastic also.P lastic is something which is very dangerous for the environment, it never degenerates.

On gardening services

I started with the idea of having a more channelized and organised way of garden- ing service. I couldn’t do a lot in the gardening service because people were more interested in exchanging their paper waste for plants. So, for now gardening has taken the backseat. This new idea is viral throughout the country. We are going to open up exchange stores as well.

Baby February

By- Arushi Agarwal, 8B

All flowers bloom when I come...
Butterflies are my best chums!
The best season of all is mine,
With spring here, no one feels glum!
Except for students in school,
Exams come with me to rule.
With blackened eyes & aching heads,
And endless nights that are quite uncool!
Did you identify me?
Oh yes, I am February!
A day or two less than them all,
I still don’t get any acne.
The youngest of them all!
I am still learning to crawl,
Pampered as I am every day,
I love playing with my favourite ball!
They all have more days than me,
My short height makes me weep!
Although I have my sister’s clothes,
I get nothing but hand me down tees!

No one tells me anything.
Say I’m too babyish to know anything!
They don’t know I understand,
What secrets they are whispering...
People weave stories in different colours,
To justify why I’m smaller?
Some say unlucky, February is...
Hearing this, I feel even smaller...
But I never lose hope,
Whatever might say the Pope!
Everyone loves me the most,
But with the hate too, I must cope...
But I still am the best!
I get more candy than then rest!
Papa Zeus loves me the most,
I feel very blessed!
Finally, I’d say this,
I am in joys abyss!
With everyone happy and loved,
This life feels like bliss!!
